His Majesty KALAKAUA evidently appreciates Homeopathy. No appointment has been made of a regular Court physician, but Dr. O. S. Cummins, who is the only Homeopathist physician on these islands, has been instructed to hold himself in readiness to attend professionally on the King and Royal family whenever required.

Hookupu.-This native word signified originally to pay tribute, but in these times it means to bring presents of provisions to a chief or the King. It is an old native custom that was notedly revived in the reign of the last King, and to-day we learn, the people of this district are intending to bring their hookupu to King Kalakana.

A WHALE.—Last Saturday, a native out fishing in a cance near the Lanai shore and opposite Lahains, discovered a dead whale, and towed it to the beach. It was a good-sized fish, of the humpback species, and is supposed to be the one struck by Mr. Luke Keegan's party of Lahaina, a few days before. It was sold on the spot for $50, and would be taken over to "the city" to be tried out.

We should be ready to prophecy a brilliant and prosperous future for these islands if we could see the country dotted with just such plantations and mills as this bids fair to be. We understand that His Majesty the King has taken an active interest in the new enterprise.

HIS MAJESTY ON SHIPBOARD.—Yesterday at 11 a.

M., the King visited the three American ships-ofwar in the harbor, returning to the shore at halfpast three r. M. His Majesty was accompanied on board by the members of the Cabinet, Governors Dominis, Kapena and Kanoa, and by the members of the late King's Staff. Three steam launches No. 21, F. & A. After partaking of another collation on board the Benecia, the Royal party returned to the shore, under a salute from that ship, the Tenedos and the Tuscarora, much pleased with their visit and the courteous reception they had met with. The ships manned yards both on the approach and departure of His Majesty.

> A CONTESTED WILL.-At Chambers on Thursday last, before Mr. Justice Harris, the will of His late Majesty Lunalile came up for probate. The will was executed June 7, 1871, and leaves his personal property to his father, H. H. Chas, Kanaina, absolutely; his real estate to his father for life, and after his decease, (failing heirs of the testator's body) the real estate is devised to three trustees, to be appointed by the Supreme Court, who are to sell it, and of the avails the sum of $25 000 to be expended in building an "Infirmary for poor, aged, and infirm people of Hawaiian birth or extraction." A codicil, added on the 31st of January, 1874, bequeaths to Queen Emma the Marine Residence at Waikiki, on the death of Kanaina, and further directs that the avails of sale of the real estate, over the sum of $25,000 for building an Infirmary, shall constitute a permanent fund for the support of the same. C. R. Bishop, Esq., is named as Executor. L. McCully, Esq., appeared for the executor, in support of the will and codicil; Messrs. Preston and Stanley for H. H. Kanaina, contesting the will and against the codicil. At the close of the hearing on Thursday, His Honor intimated that he considered the will as established, and the codicil probably suswas a provision or regulation of the bequest for the establishment of an Infirmary in addition to what further argument before Judge Harris on this point, on the whole matter to the full Court.

A SURPRISE PARTY .- On Tuesday evening last, in the vestry-room of the Fort Street Church, there was a large assemblage of the parishioners of the Rev. Mr. Frear, who gave that gentleman a testimonial of the esteem in which he is held, in the shape of a handsomely filled purse (some $340) for the purpose of making good the loss sustained by him at a fire on the 2d of last month. The secret had been quite well kept, so far as the Reverend gentleman was concerned, so that the agreeable surprise to him was a real one. L. McCully, Esq. made the presentation on behalf of the donors, in a speech which was so neat and appropriate, that we find it impossible to do it justice in an ordinary notice, like this. He began by quoting a saying of Rochefoucauld, to the effect that "we all take a kind of secret enjoyment in the misfortunes of our friends:" and added that it was felt to be true when the misfortunes of a man were the occasion and opportunity for the expression of the good feelings of his friends towards him; and with more that was peculiarly pertinent to the subject and the occasion, Mr. McCully concluded by saying that " a good pastor, charging himself much with our spiritual affairs, his people may well charge themselves that he suffer no inconvenience by such an extra loss as the one alluded to." Mr. Frear's reply was brief and feeling, but equally appropriate and to the point as was the address. The presentation being over, the company was treated to some really fine Oberon," followed by the beautiful Aria of "Ave Castle and Mr. Barnard. Of the musical abilities of these gentlemen, every one here is cognizant, but Miss Castle has developed a remarkable talent and skill on the piano forte. These, gentlemen, are some of the stirring events. which the last few weeks have witnessed in our usually quiet capital, and it was under these circumstances that His Majesty, feeling the necessity Feb. 12. The Legislative met in accordance with the of surrounding himself with firm, tried, and true proclamation issued on the 4th by the Cabinet of the connectors, decided to avail himself of the longlate King, for the purpose of electing a Successor to irled zeal and attachment to the throne of Hawaii the Throne. Immediately on organizing, the House and thorough knowledge of public affairs possessed name is revered by you all. It has been gratifying to me to know that all the private, public and official acts of my predension have always met with the highest satisfaction, general approval and kind appreciation at your hands; he is a man of stern and slow mind, but always takes sure steps, fearing that hastiness and oversight might endanger the public safety or obstruct the interests of the mass; as a friend in hand, as a Governor, he is long famed as one possessed of strong qualities, of amiable disposition. and above all, his advice and counsel were often invited by the former Kings. May I endeavor to draw your aloha to me as did my predecessor.

Now, gentlemen, in order to regain Maul's prosperous condition and to pave our way for the interests and prospects of this and the adjacent islands, it falls to our lot to endeavor to encourage by all means in our power and to further and to maintain our agricultural pursuits, and our progressive condition And lastly, gentlemen, I invite you all to join with me in the maintenance of law and order, and to co-operate in all measures tending to promote interests of the masses as well as the true welfare and prosperity of the Hawaiian nation. At the conclusion of the Governor's remarks, which were received with applause, a Committee of thirteen was appointed to draft a suitable reply. The following letter was accordingly forwarded by the Lanaina, Maut, H. L., Feb. 26, 1874.

We the undersigned, a Committee appointed at a meeting of native and foreign residents of Lahaina, which assembled in accordance with your invitation the Palace, the Treasury, and other Government at the Waince Church yesterday to hear read your commission as Governor of this island, beg in accordance with their wish to offer their congratulations upon your appointment, and upon the confidence placed in you by His Majesty in selecting you to fill this high office.

> assuring you at the same time of the esteem in which you are held among us. We thank you for the very pertinent remarks addressed to the meeting, and for the good will expressed by you for us.

We perfectly agree with the eulogium passed by you upon your predecessor, and think His Majorty, in calling upon him to become one of His Ministers, has chosen a very worthy and efficient gentleman. We were deeply grieved to hear of the disgraceful riot which took place in Honololu on the 12th inst., but trust that this, the first disturbance of the kind

In conclusion, we would beg of you to convey to His Majesty our p'easure at greeting you as Governor ; at the same time assuring Him of the heartfelt loyalty with which His Sacred Person is regarded by the native and foreign residents here.

We have the honor to be Your Excellency's very obedient servants,

P. Norton Makee, Henry Turton, E. Jones per P., Jas. W. Girvin, Henry Dickenson, jr., Thos. C. Forsyth, L. Aholo, Kia Nahaolelua, S. Kamoahakau, B. W. Kawainui, S. W. Naililli

Reflections on the Riot.

It is not until the smoke of battle has cleared away, and the funeral volley is fired over the honored dead, that we can speculate upon the causes of victory or defeat. It has been even thought that accurate and philosophical history, cannot be written antil centuries after the events have taken place-But an impartial observer of a drama in history, familiar with all the surrounding circumstances, can generally form a more accurate judgment of events, than one who only sees them through the twilight

As an eye witness of the riot of the 12th ult, and as one who has watched the effects since that time, I shall venture to draw some conclusions from the facts, as they fell under my immediate observation. Although there had been vague rumors of violence among the Quamites same days prior to the election, yet it was regarded as the result of momentary partisan excitement only. There were no preparations for any violent outbreak, no arming of anything like an organized force, nor was there any instance of a single individual armed for any act of leading demagogues made inflammatory speeches and fanned the spirit of excitement into a flame. Had it not been for these exciting appeals, the crowd would have dispersed in quiet and no demonstrations would have been made. The outbreak was evidently on the spur of the moment, the immediate exciting cause being the harangues of the Queenite speakers.

the native people, no person anticipated a violent outbreak. During the half century in which the Hawaiian people have been advancing on the road to civilization, there has not been a serious riot or mob, such as almost annually stain the historical record of the most civilized and enlightened nations. On the announcement of the election of His Maiesty Kalakaua, there were many vivas, and for a ment all seemed quiet; but the inflammatory ap peals of a very few emissaries, in a most excited and nsane manner roused the canaille to madness, and a surging of the crowd commenced. But the whole number of the rabble thus excited and enraged did not amount to one hundred. Indeed when the first assault was made on the carriage of Major Mocho. nua, I could not count fifty, and in the height of the excitement, in the Vandal-like assault upon the Court House, they were not greatly augmented Many yelled and shouted vociferously-among then excited women-who took no active part in the matter, a mixed tumultuous crowd of friends and foes, without a head or organization. All the weapons were improvised as sudden as the outbreak.

Marshal Parke was active in the performance of his duty as well as the sheriff, Mr. Dayton. They seemed almost ubiquitous and opposed the disturb ance wherever it appeared concentrated strongest They made strong and energetic appeals and used all the force at their disposal, and did all that men could do under the circumstances to arrest the mad torrent. The foreign police and a few of the natives, gave the Marshal all the aid in their power, but the greater portion of the native police force, was either paralyzed with fear or sympathized with the rioters I have heard some words of censure passed against the Marshal, for not coming prepared with fire arms to the riot, the Marshal called all the native police force together and distinctly informed them, that they must know no candidate, and take no part in the coming election, but must be prepared to sustain whoever might be elected to the throne and preserve the public peace. That if there were any who had a preference or sympathies in favor of either candidate that would overcome their sense of duty, they must retire-they must leave then and not embar rass him in his efforts to preserve the public peace. They all answered that they had no preference-no sympathy and that they would use every effort to aid him in their power. The result exhibits what reliance can be placed in their word.

After the riot, the Marshal again called the same police force around him and told them that to make amends for their luke-warmness in preserving thepeace, they must arrest the offenders. To this call bly a new Stirps for a Royal Succession, and the late | they responded with great activity. So it seems they were mostly useless in preserving the peace, but active in making arrests after the disturbance was quelled.
